

So shines a good deed

So shines a good deed

Message from the Board Chair and President

A good deed shines and is as comforting as the light of a candle in a dark room. At the Adams County Community Foundation we have the incredible privilege of being the stewards of many good deeds that benefit our community. And through the generosity of endowed fund donors, those good deeds will shine forever.

The Community Foundation is here to encourage and support every one of the good deed doers in Adams County. Our donors trust us to invest their charitable gifts wisely, to award grants that honor their purpose, and to safeguard their intentions in perpetuity.

Every good deed — whether it's a one-time gift to one of our Giving Spree participants or a major legacy gift to provide ongoing support for the changing needs in Adams County — every good deed throws out a beam of light. Together we are lighting up Adams County today and for generations to come.

What does your good deed doing look like?

We invite you to join us.

Making a Difference in Adams County

The Community Foundation is a charitable organization created by and for the people of Adams County. We are supported by local donors and governed by a board of private citizens who work toward the greater good of the community.

The Adams County Community Foundation exists to support donors: individuals, families and businesses. Our goal is to make a difference in Adams County today and for generations to come through a growing, permanent endowment.

It starts with donors who care.

We listen to donors and their professional advisors to understand their charitable wishes as an important aspect of their life and legacy. With contributions to existing charitable funds, or establishment of new funds that reflect their charitable purpose, donors' generosity lights up the future.

The Community Foundation stewards the funds.

We invest the charitable funds entrusted to us with a long time horizon, committed to honoring each donor's purpose for generations to come.

The result is lasting benefit for our community.

Representing all of our donors, past and present, we use their gifts to make grants to effective nonprofits, to push for changes in unfair policies or systems, and to foster creative thinking and test new solutions for our community.

The collective power of our donors makes it possible for us to make a difference in Adams County in many ways.

- We address community needs as they evolve.
- We enable nonprofits working regionally to extend their services into Adams County.
- We help remove barriers to self-sufficiency, paying for things that others can't or won't.
- We keep our eyes on the big picture of economic development.
- We support our increasingly diverse community.
- We use our relationships and influence to create change.
- We provide leverage to bring state and federal funding to Adams County.
- We promote endowment-building to help local nonprofits sustain themselves with a steady stream of operating capital.

Development Director Heidi Acker is leading the effort to build the Adams Rescue Mission's endowment to sustain services to the homeless and others recovering from addictions and trauma.

Servants, Inc. engages churches, businesses, and individual volunteers to provide no-cost home maintenance and repairs for elderly, disabled and other low-income homeowners to help them stay in their homes.

Andrew Dalton, Adams County Historical Society's Executive Director, guided creation of the new "Beyond the Battle" Museum. A Community Foundation grant supported a permanent exhibit focused on local black history and a Fund for the Environment grant powers a solar energy project to reduce ongoing utility costs.

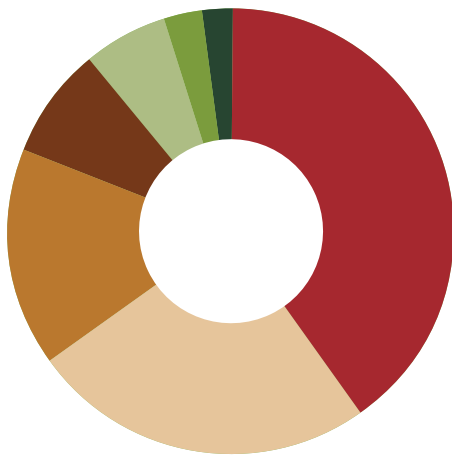

Adams County nonprofits participating in the Giving Spree gathered to learn about building their endowment and promoting "forever gifts" for their organizations.

Grants and Scholarships

Each year the Community Foundation uses the charitable funds entrusted to us by our generous donors to award grants and scholarships. Adams County Grants address the current pressing needs of our community. Other grants, as well as our 90 scholarships, reflect the particular charitable interests of our donors or support specific organizations.

In 2022 the Community Foundation awarded more than $3.3 million in grants and scholarships to nonprofits and schools in Adams County and across the country in the categories charted below.

- 25% Preserving our Past
- 16% Education
- 8% Arts & Culture
- 6% Environment
- 3% Animal Welfare
- 2% Economic Development

With a 2022 grant from the Community Foundation to create its workforce development program, Adams County Technical Institute prepares students like these for jobs in our thriving, local economy. Additional annual grants from the John & Mary Shuss Fund help individual students with supplies and required materials.

Giving Spree

The 2022 Adams County Community Foundation Giving Spree was another record-breaking success with 2,475 donors making 9,754 separate gifts totaling $3,100,664.84 to benefit 90 Adams County nonprofits. You can see all the details of the 2022 Giving Spree at ACCFGivingSpree.org

Steady Giving

Donors gave more than $4 million to and through the Community Foundation in 2022, consistent with 2021. These gifts ranged from small donations supporting particular causes to major gifts by donors establishing new charitable funds.

Donors and their scholarship recipients met for breakfast at our annual scholarship celebration.

Celebrating an End to Scholarship Displacement

We are proud to claim the leadership role played by the Community Foundation in advocating for an end to scholarship displacement across the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

What is scholarship displacement?

When we award a scholarship to a student on behalf of a donor and the university then reduces that student's financial aid package—that's "scholarship displacement", a common practice. Scholarship displacement essentially eliminates the scholarship's benefit to the student, and defeats our donor's purpose in awarding the scholarship.

Why did we step up to end scholarship displacement?

As a community foundation, our duty is to carry out our donors' purpose. To uphold that duty, we use every resource available, including our relationships and our influence. That's why the Adams County Community Foundation led a statewide coalition of scholarship providers to call for the elimination of scholarship displacement.

After four years of persistently educating legislators about this issue, on Friday, July 8, 2022, Governor Tom Wolf signed into law a ban on scholarship displacement at Pennsylvania's public colleges and universities. This makes Pennsylvania the fourth state in the country to eliminate the practice of scholarship displacement.

This marks a major success for scholarship students, scholarship donors, and the Community Foundation, and that's why we're celebrating!

Susi and Fred Guinn, who were instrumental in the creation of our scholarship program, generously sponsored the Community Foundation's 2023 scholarship celebration. Miss Pennsylvania 2022 Alysa Bainbridge, who helped advocate for legislation ending scholarship displacement in our state, delivered an inspirational keynote.

A complete list of our scholars, their high schools, and the charitable funds that made these awards possible is available on our website at bit.ly/accf-scholarships-2023

Treasurer's Report

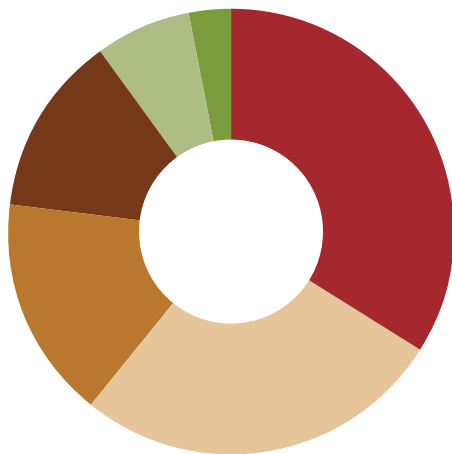

Overall, 2022 was a challenging year for investments, and the Community Foundation was not immune. The permanent endowment investment pool, managed by Brown Advisory, posted a negative return of 13.7% net of investment fees and expenses.

While the endowment declined $3 million for the year, the Community Foundation held steady to its investment and spending policy* to provide grants and scholarships in excess of $3.2 million to benefit Adams County during the year.

Though 2022 saw turbulent financial markets, it also created opportunities for disciplined investors with a rebound in the fourth quarter that has continued into the new year. The economy is showing some bright spots with moderating inflation, while other issues linger that may cause financial markets to remain choppy, but I am proud of the Investment & Finance Committee's ability to remain focused on our long-term mission: to benefit the community in perpetuity.
